

When the Leaves go Brown

Autumn is a beautiful season from the colourful canopy upon the trees, the smell of smoky fires, to the refreshing nip in the breeze. Sadly, the autumn is a short season too; the stormy clouds are gathering – look at your garden, there's so much to do.

There is harvesting, branch cutting, a little mowing, some sowing and your plants will need dead-heading and there is one important job you should not forget to do and that is your hedging.

For did you know that in winter your hedges can be damaged by the ice, wind and snow. You will have to work hard at making the foliage thicker, but instead of shearing why not buy a Mitox 60 HTD hedge trimmer?

Don't worry, it will do the trick; a lovely neat job that's done ever so quick.

What about your poor old lawn?

It's looking a bit shabby and all forlorn. It's been parched by the hot summer's sun; it's also been abused by pools, parties and barbecues and now it's damaged in the name of fun.

So, it's up to you to help your lawn to repair. A few jobs to do to get rid of the grime as this will make sure your grass is green and lush, all ready for the spring and summer time.

To improve the appearance of your lawn, the edges will need straightening.

Your grass, unless you want a mud bath, will need aerating and you will have to tell the weeds and moss to get lost.

How do I do this I hear you cry?

Well, there's trimmers, aerators and scarifiers to name but a few; all essential equipment ready for you to use.

So why don't you give them a try?

The real problem of autumn is when the leaves turn brown and with a good gust of wind they fall swiftly to the ground.

You'll rake and you'll rake until your back breaks – oh you will be in such pain.

Don't sit down, look behind you – the pesky leaves are back again.

So, you'll rake, and you'll rake but you're getting slower.

Have you ever thought of buying a blower?

They are amazing you know and, dare it be said, they can suck as well as blow!

They're lightweight and easy to use; you can hear the rattle as the leaves whiz up the tube.

Or, if that is not what you require, blow them into a heap and watch them burn upon the fire.

Then when your garden is clean and tidy, you can enjoy other things this wonderful season brings; like fruit picking, Halloween and a bonfire party.

If your blades are blunt, or you're like me and need advice to make your garden look nice because you don't know what tools you need; don't despair, LRS is the place where there are experts who also offer servicing and repairs.
